Addressing Implicit Bias & Microaggressions To Create An Inclusive Classroom & Campus Community Tuesday, March 10 ~ 3:00-4:00pm (Eastern)

Once the live date has passed, this training will be available on demand.

Overview

Racism, sexism, ageism, homophobia, and other forms of discrimination and prejudice toward marginalized and underrepresented groups are pervasive in our society and sometimes manifest as implicit bias and microaggressions. Implicit bias is the unconscious, automatic, and instantaneous association of stereotypes or attitudes towards particular groups of people, while microaggressions are the everyday indignities and insults and offensive hidden messages inflicted upon people of color and other marginalized and minority groups. Implicit biases and microaggressions have a negative impact on academic and workplace performance and psychological well-being and should be the subject of an open and honest dialogue in a higher education environment. This webinar examines implicit biases and microaggressions and relates examples that have recently been covered in the news media. Participants will reflect on the implicit biases and microaggressions that they may have experienced themselves as well as expressed towards others. They will also leverage their increased awareness and understanding to respond effectively when interacting with students and others.

Objectives:

- Recognize implicit biases and associations
- Understand microaggressions and how they negatively impact marginalized groups
- Increase awareness of ethnocentrism and privilege
- Identify beliefs, emotions, and/or behaviors that contribute to implicit biases and microaggressions
- Leverage increased awareness and understanding to reduce the expressions of implicit biases and microaggressions
- Foster increased classroom and campus inclusiveness, empowerment, and engagement
